Graphic Novels

Butter and Crackers are rescue pets living their best (and quiet) lives. Butter, a laid-back cat, has access to all the butter he can lick and Crackers, a slightly nervous dog, is free to bark at squirrels to his heart's content. With an owner who goes to work every day, they spend their days doing whatever they want.

But when Peanut, a brand-new puppy with big floppy ears, arrives, everything changes. He has no appreciation of the quiet life, no idea how stairs work and he's even afraid of the dark!

Butter and Crackers have had enough - this puppy needs to go! But when Peanut escapes and gets lost, it turns out that home isn't home without the noisy little puppy after all...

A Street Through Time
by DK and Steve Noon.

Think of the street you live on. Now think of how it may have looked in the Stone Age in 10,000 BCE, or in Victorian times during the Industrial Revolution, or how it may look 50 years from now. A Street Through Time takes you on a time-travelling journey that you won't forget. Highly detailed illustrations bring 15 key periods in time to life. You will see magnificent buildings go up and come down, new churches built on the site of ancient temples, wooden bridges destroyed and then remade in stone, and statues demolished then unearthed many years later. You'll find out how people lived long ago - the tools they used, what they wore and what they did all day.

Once by Morris Gleitzman

Felix has been living in an orphanage for three years and eight months when the men in armbands arrive to burn the books.

Going on the run in search of his parents, Felix soon learns that Poland in 1942 is not a safe place for Jewish boys. But can his gift for storytelling keep him one step ahead of the Nazis and help him find his parents?

After all, everybody deserves to have something good in their life at least once.

Author

Michael Morpurgo

Michael Morpurgo is an English children's writer. He has written more than 120 books. Morpurgo and Ted Hughes, a popular English poet, helped to establish the post of children's laureate in the United Kingdom. They wanted to highlight the importance of children's literature. Morpurgo served as the children's laureate from 2003 to 2005. Morpurgo was born on October 5, 1943, in Saint Albans, Hertfordshire, England. Morpurgo taught children for many years. In 1976 he and his wife started a charity called Farms for City Children. The farms offered city children the opportunity to live and work on a farm for a week.

Morpurgo began writing children's books while he was a teacher. Morpurgo's books teach values such as trust and courage. Many of his books feature animals as important characters. War Horse (1982) is about Joey, a farm horse who is sold to the army during World War I. It was adapted for the stage and was made into a film. The Butterfly Lion (1996) is about a young boy in Africa and his friendship with a white lion. A bear cub is adopted by an orphan girl in The Dancing Bear (1994).

Illustrator

Eric Carle

The American author and illustrator Eric Carle was known for his picture books for young children. His illustrations are famous for their brilliant colours and simple designs. He illustrated more than 70 books, many of which he also wrote. One of his best-known books is The Very Hungry Caterpillar (1969).

Poet

Robert Carroll

Jabberwocky by Lewis Carroll

One of the most celebrated and best-loved nonsense poems in the English language, "Jabberwocky" first appeared in Lewis Carroll's classic Through the Looking-Glass and What Alice Found There. Joel Stewart reveals a natural affinity with Carroll's vision, capturing with great wit and imagination the extraordinary world of the poem and its memorable creatures, such as the Jubjub bird, the frumious Bandersnatch and the manxome Jabberwock.
